

Community Helper Words to Trace and Copy

Written by: Jan McCleskey, MA, OTR

Trace and write themes were written to be freely downloaded and used within curriculum for preschoolers, special education students and classroom curriculum to encourage students to develop sequencing skills in letter formation. These words can be put in writing labs, play centers, and used in theme based, multi-sensory handwriting practice.
